Heart Health

With your heart being one of the most important organs in your body, keeping it healthy reduces your risk of stroke, heart disease, and other major health problems. There are many things you can do to keep your heart strong.

Get Active

Your heart is a muscle and like any other muscle in your body, it needs to be strengthened. ANY physical activity is better than none! Find a way to move that brings you joy and doesn't feel like a chore.

Manage Stress

High and constant stress means an increase in cortisol levels. High levels of cortisol is linked to high blood pressure, cholesterol, blood sugar, and triglycerides which all affect the health of your heart.

RECIPEKEEPER APP

This app collects all your recipe photos or websites to assist in digitally organizing your meal planning and grocery list with just a few taps.

5 MINUTE HIIT

This 5 minute workout will have you move for 40 seconds and rest for 20. This will get your heart pumping to keep it healthier. When can you find time in your week to incorporate this workout?

FIBER-FULL SLOPPY JOES

This take on this classic comfort food has you add black beans to increase fiber and reduce ketchup to cut the overall sugar by 12 grams!

Eat Healthy

Try to consume a diet low in sodium (salt), high in fiber (beans, legumes, whole fruits and vegetables, brown rice, and whole grains), and healthier fats like unsaturated and omega-3s (olive oil, nuts, seeds, seafood). Eating these foods can reduce your blood pressure, increase your HDL (good cholesterol), and lower your LDL (bad cholesterol) and triglycerides.

Get Sleep

Individuals who don't get enough sleep have a higher risk of depression, diabetes, high blood pressure, and obesity. Adults should get 7 or more hours of sleep per night. Create a bedtime routine, determine a consistent sleep schedule, and go to sleep in a dark and quiet space so your brain and body are getting the proper rest it needs.

Get Bloodwork

You don't know what you don't know. A key step to getting healthy is knowing where you are currently. Visiting your doctor and get to know your blood sugar (A1C), cholesterol, and triglycerides scores.
